

Build a website with basic (C)RUD functionality on gcp or any other backend service you wish

- create
- read
- update
- delete

Could be basic as a button that when clicked, updates a backend so that way when the page loads again it is at that updated number, or more complex, such as storing a resume or anything else.

Please link project repo + include video in the readme of you using the app + data being modified on firebase